

February 2021

To whom it may concern,

Think about that time you needed an internship to graduate. How did you get it? Was it easy or hard to find one? That is what I need; some help getting an internship so I can graduate and utilize my skillset in a career. I'm an experienced professional including several years working in a 50/50 office and remote role. During that time, I designed and implemented a cost savings plan for my team that resulted in a 53% reduction in spending year-over-year. I'm capable, mature, responsible, and committed to delivering high quality performance for the duration of the work relationship.

I'm very excited to apply the skills I have learned in school in a real software engineering setting! In my time at school, my favorite project was a group project with two other students where we created an app that lets you build a Zombie Apocalypse Response Team based on your real-life skills and real-life friends. I specifically excel in app development, engineering project management, SPA web applications, just to name a few.

I look forward to discussing my background and any further questions you may have in an upcoming meeting or interview. Please don't hesitate to reach out. I am available via Skype, Zoom, Microsoft Teams, by phone or by email. If the next big thing in 2021 is a zombie apocalypse I have an app that may help you out!

Best regards,

Cebrin Billings
